PostgresToDB2 is an intuitive and convenient solution for transferring information from PostgreSQL to IBM DB2 and other big data platforms. The program facilitates three types of transfers, namely, from a single or multiple tables, via query and from a specified table or the entire schema. The software is simple to use and offers you the chance to migrate single or multiple tables at the same time. You need to select the exact destination table or the entire schema to be transferred and the transfer can be either append, replace or update, at the same time. PostgresToDB2 features a visual configuration option, which allows you to uncheck or check the fields, thus, defining the source for the transfer. Moreover, in the case of a single table transfer, you may even create new rows, then migrate it to the receiving database. You may easily configure the exact rows you wish to transfer and which can be ignored, from each table. Append: In case you wish to transfer data into a single table or to update the existing content, the appending method is the safest and the most convenient. In this method, the existing table is appended to the end of the destination table. Replace: There are instances when your need to replace the entire content of the source table or a batch of tables. PostgresToDB2 offers you two migration methods namely, update and append. In the case of update, the entire content of the source table is replaced with the content of the destination table.
